The story begins with sounds of the outside at night.

All of the sudden, there is a scary commotion. A fight ensues in the background.

The police arrive. Gunfire starts.

The scene shifts to a quiet bedroom.

An alarm begins to ring. A woman screams herself awake from her nightmare of the outside commotion.

She shuts off the alarm. She yawns and sighs, realizing she must have been dreaming, and falls asleep again.

The room is quiet- just the sound of a clock ticking.

Everything is quiet.

All of the sudden, she is awakened by the same creepy laugh from her nightmare before.

She runs out of her house to the outside, screaming. She slams the door.

Scary music begins to play.

The nightmare starts again.
